Commission Majority Recommends That All Canadian Railways Except C.P.R. be Merged Into One Big System

This System, Commissioners Recommend, Should Be Placed Under Control of Five Trustees Appointed By Parliament—Board of Investigation Appointed Last Session Presents Its Report on General Problem of Transportation in Canada at Present Time

OTTAWA, May 2.—When the House rose at 6 o clock today, Sir Thomas White, the acting Premier, tabled the report of the commission named last session, to make a report to Parliament on the condition of Canadian railways. The commission of inquiry was authorized to inquire into the general problem of transportation in Canada, including the status of the three transcontinental railways. Sir H. L. Drayton and W. M. Aeworth, of London, England, in a majority report of ninety printed pages, recommend that all the Canadian railways, apart from the C. P. R. be merged into one system and placed under control of five trustees appointed by Parliament.

A. H. Smith, president of the New York Central, in a minority re port, dissents from the findings of the other members of the commission and recommends a continuance of Government aid to the necessitous railroads of the Dominion until they become self-supporting. He expressed the belief that this time will not be far distant,

"The different grounds advanced to the company as justifying this account by the government were examised. They are entirely rejected by the commissioners who find that while a government rather than the commitment were responsible for the transportinental, the Grand Trunk is entrely responsible for the Grand runk Pacific. The report reads:

"We cannot think that this is a sesonable proposition, or one that a could advise the government to accut. What would be thought if one artner in a business were to say to

The report finds that the Grand expenditures and in order to put the

The commissioners say:

Sir Henry Drayton has closely summarized the findings of the commissioners for the benefit of the press of the dominion. His summaries as given out with full reports are as follows:

"The report of the royal commission to inquire into railways and transportation has been made. This report is a majority report signed by Sir Henry Drayton and W. M. Acworth, who was appointed by the government not only in view of the fact that he is one of the best known authorities on railway rates and economics, but is as well closely in touch with London and Knyllab floanced."

Lack of Efficiency.

The report goes on to snow how high London and Knyllab floanced.

The report refers to the estimate submitted to parliament in 1914 by the company for the year ending June 20, 1913. It showed gross earnings of $61,090,000, net earnings of $17,700.

The revised estimate for the same year to the commissioners was: Gross earnings $42,590,000; net earnings $11,500,000.

The revised estimate for the same year to the commissioners was: Gross earnings $42,590,000; net earnings $11,500,000.

Some Misleading Figures.

The estimate submitted to partiament for the year ending June 30, 1915, was: Gross earnings, $67,000,000; net earnings, $20,100,000; while the company's estimate for the same year submitted to the commissioners was: Gross earnings, $48,185,000; net earnings, $13,395,000.

The commissioners give no effect either to the old or the new estimates, but as an evidence of the unreliability of estimates point out that the company's estimate to parliament for the year ending June 30, 1916, was: Gross earnings, $54,000,000; net earnings, $15,120,000, while as a matter of facthe company, with the advantage of a bumper harvest, only carned: Gross earnings $35,476,000; net earnings, $9,373,000.

"The figures mentioned as 'net earnings' are as at the time stated merely the net results of operation, without taking into account at all the capital of fixed charges. The report shows that the company itself now estimates its fixed charges for the year ending June 30, 1917, at $16,539,638.

Living From Hand to Mouth.

"The report shows that the company is living from hand to mouth and is unable to meet its obligations.

"The valuation of the railway which the investigation commission had made shows a total reproduction cost of $397,441,567, and a depreciation value $357,499,687. The reproduction value of the equipment is placed at $56,590,412, and a depreciation of $11,250,433 is found, making the present equipment value $45,359,365, giving a total present value of $402,749,663.

Michael Steel, of South Perth, declaring in favor of the organization of a of the people of Canada.

Hon Martin Burrell said that there were many pressing questions owing to the war which were engaging the while the time was not far distant when the whole matter would have to be taken up, he thought it was better to postpone action until after the war.

F. B. Carvell said he had no quarrel with the banks, but they did not need the money and it might as well be given to the Patriotic Fund.

Sir Herbert Ames, in opposing the resolution, said that the glory of the Patriotic Fund is that the money is contributed by people who cannot fight.

Atter further debate the motion was declared lost on division.

Robert Bickerdike, Montreal, moyed that the povernment should perhit prisoners in gaois and penitentiaries to enlist for overseas service.

The proposal did hot appeal to Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, He did not think it would be wise to indiscriminately empty the penitentiaries of Canada and turn the inmates into the ranks of the overseas forces.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier agreed with the minister of justice but thought that the class of prisoners who are now released on parole might be given an opportunity to enlist.

Resolution Voted Down

Mr. Bickerdike's resolution for the abilition of capital punishment was voted down on a division of 27 to 17.

Mr. Bickerdike then moved that parliament should protest against the infliction of a death penalty on Patrick Spain, the Manitoba 16 year old boy under sentence of death on May 15.

The military activities on all fronts in France and Belgium are still in a stage of apparent deadlock, but the artillery everywhere continues roaring in violent duels, and it is evident new phases of infantry actions are developing.

On none of the other fronts have there been engagements of great importance. The British in Mesopotamia have driven forward their lines and captured men, guns and stores. The Turks have forced out the Russians from Mush, in Turkish Armenia.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 2.—The story of the alleged $25,000 campaign fund, which the prosecution will endeavor to prove was paid to Hon. M. A. MacDonald, was outlined before Mr. Justice Gregory this morning by E. M. N.
Woods, counsel for J. S. Cowper, sixth

When the inquiry opened this morning Justice Gregory said he had observed the newspaper reports about the endeavor to reduce the charge from $25,000 to $15,000. He would be

"My client is prepared to offer no

BRITISH EMPIRE MUST RELY UPON CANADA FOR BIG CROP THIS YEAR

Cereal Crop That Will Represent Cultivation of Every Available Acre

Montreal, May 2—The Gazette's correspondent in London has cabled an interview he had with director-general of Food Economy Kennedy Jones, on Tuesday, in whoh Mr. Kennedy Jones made this statement:

"We in England are following with gratitude and admiration the steps that are being taken in Canada to increase the production of foodstuffs. Every pound of food raised in the Dominion is another spike in the torpedo tubes of the German submarines. Your effective organization of voluntary land workers, the patriotic way in which the university and high school students are responding to the call to spend their vacations in helping the farmers, and promotion of vacant lot cultivation are all characteristic of the thorough way in which Canada is making war. These movements have not come too soon; we are working on the same lines here, but we are slow to realize the emergency, and our efforts cannot have much appreciable results until 1918.

"To achieve that complete victory which alone will satisfy every part of the empire we must rely on Canada for a cereal crop that will represent the cultivation of every acre by available man, woman, boy and girl. Without this there may not be sufficient food in the motherland to push the successes won at Ypres, the Somme and Vimy ride at the price of Canacian bravery. Our people here will do their best by cutting down to the bare minimum their own consumption, or, if necessary, rich and poor nitke will only be able to obtain bread to keep them going by means of tickets. But neither voluntary self-sacrifice nor compulsory rationing of the motherland will be of ultimate-avail unless we can count on Canada for a coveal crop that will be up to the standard set by the Canadans on the battleneds of France."

Many whose eyes were falling tay they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses, and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to rea," A hady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hany with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear I can read even fine print without glasses," Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes, which induced fierce headnehes. In concluding the reference to the Canadian Northern, the commissioners Say People Should Assume Control.

Say People Should Assume Control.

"We conclude, therefore, that the shareholders of the company have no equity either on the ground of cash put in or on the graind of physical reconstruction cost, or on the ground of the saleable status of their property as a going concern. If then, the people of Canada have already found, or assumed responsibility for, the bulk of the capital; if they must need find what further capital is required; and if they must make up for some years to come considerable deficits in net earnings, it seems logically to follow that the people of Canada should assume control of the property."

The report discusses the Intercolonial at some length, its inadequate facilities and consequent disability of shippers.

The transfer of the Intercolonial to

The transfer of the Intercolonial to the proposed system is recommended, firstly, in the interest of the Maritime Provinces; secondly, in the interests of the Canadian taxpayer; and, thirdly, in the interest of the Intercolonial, as a rallway, itself.

The report recommends the incorporation of the Transcontinental in the new system as it can be there put to a useful purpose, while standing alone without proper feeding and distributing lines it can do but little business and has no future.

and has no future.

One of Largest Systems in World.

"The proposed system, if put into effect," the report says, will constitute the largest railway system in the world, with the exception of the German. It would constitute an adequate and well-balanced transcontinental railway, with necessary branches both in the east and west, and would obviate the unnecesary expenditure of many millions both in the east and the west for further wasteful and unnecessary duplications, both in lines and terminals, that of necessity must take place if the original programs of the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific were carried out.

"The system would be considerable."

Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific were carried out.

"The system would be considerably larger than the Canadian Pacific, and be quite as well located, both from an operating and traffice standpoint. In time it ought to produce as favorable financial results, constitute a great national asset, and take a high and commanding place among the great systems of the world."

The report shows the large railway mileage of the country. It establishes that Canada today has but 185 inhabitants to support each mile of railway as against 238 in Argentina, 274 in Australia, and 400 in the United States. Economy, the climination of duplicating services and the most efficient business management are insisted upon.

Although the commissioners are States. Economy, the elimination of duplicating services and the most efficient business management are insisted upon.

Although the commissioners are emphatic in their recommendation that the railways in question become the property of the people of Canada, they are equally emphatic that government operation of the system would be against the best interest of the country. The Intercolonial and the state-operated railways of Australia are discussed, and on many grounds the mixture of politics and the business of railway operation is condemned. The success of the whole scheme is predicated on the absolute absence of all political interference with the trustees or with the system.

Recommend Five Trustees,
The management of the system is to be placed in the hands of five trustees, or commissioners, to be appointed by parliament. Three of these trustees to be men of the highest railway experience and ability, who will be required to give their whole time to the undertakings, another to be appointed as having the special confidence of and to represent the railway employees; the last, an outstanding man of business, well qualified to advise on financial questions and general business conditions. The two latter trustees are not required to give their whole time, but are expected to give their best assistance and advise, and if occasion requires, with a view in the first instance of obtaining the best possible co-operation between the rustees and the railway staff in the interests of the nublic as sole beneficiary and stockholder; and, in the next instance, of obtaining the best service and facilitties possible from the system, having regard to the business interests of the company's producers and shippers.

The duty is cast upon these trustees s of the company's producers

Government Auditor.

The commissioners recommend that the auditors for the proposed system be appointed by the finance minister, and that a continuously running audit be made so that from time to time and at any day the exact position of the undertaking and its financial standing may be known.

Under the report the status of the companies to be acquired remains unchanged. The existing bonds and debentures are simply continued. No new financing or additional burdens are necessary excepting for the purpose of providing for present floating company indebtedness and required increases in rolling stock and facilities.

positions of the companies and their potential earning power. The exact

With regard to the stewardship of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann, controlling the Canadian Northern absolutely as they did, the commissioners say:

Northern absolutely as they did, the commissioners say:

Were Convinced of Success

"The result of our inquiry leads us to the conviction that both Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mannhad a firm belief in the ultimate success of their undertaking and in their own ability to carry it to a successful conclusion. It was, therefore, obviously in their interest, as owners of all the common stock, that the rond should be as well located and as economically constructed as possible. And they did their best to attain this end.

Construction West of Edmonton The success of their endeavors may be judged from the fact that Canadian Northern construction from Tollerton (120 miles west of Edmonton) to Vancouver cost $88,629 per mile, while the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific from Wolf Creek (on the opposite side of the Athabasca river from Tollerton to Prince Rupert cost $112,000 per mile. It is true that the Canadian Northern had the benefit of the 'tote' roads built by the Grand Trunk Pacific between Fembina river and Resplendent, as the Grand Trunk was first in the field; but as against that it had to Cace; higher costs of labor and materials. We believe that, speaking generally, one consideration may be set off construction of the Canadian Northern from Port Arthur east to Montreal can be compared fairly to the cost of construction of the National Transcontinental from Winnipeg to Quebec. The cost of the Canadian Northern was $52,602 per mile including in this amount interest at flyoper cent during the construction period, but excluding the Montreal passenger terminal. The cost of the National Transcontinental was $93,735 per mile, including interest at 3 per cent. down to December 31, 1914, but excluding the cost of the Quebeo bridge." The success of their endeavors may be judged from the fact that Cana-

Canadian Northern nor the Grand Trunk can meet their liabilities, the commissioners oppose the appointment of receivers for the companies, except as a last resort. In their opinion the country is already so largely involved in the companies that receiverships would be bound to seriously react upon the country's credit.
Other alternative solutions are discussed and rejected. These comprise, the transfer of the railways to the Canadian Pacific, the transfer of the whole or a portion of the Canadian Northern to the Canadian Pacific railway; the possibility of a new commercial company; the adoption of the Mexican railway scheme, a partnership established between the state and

Many minor recommendations as to the enlargement of the functions of the railway commission, subsidies and grants of railway securities, the incorporation of railway companies, both provincial and dominion, the organization of railway councils, highway improvement and the Hudson Bay Railway are made.

Plea for Quick Action

Pics for Quick Action
The report ends with an earnest plea for quick action. The commissioners say:

"We will enumerate certain other matters that will not brook delay. In the west the Canadian Northern is not giving, and is not able to give adequate service to the grain growers in some important districts which are dependent on its lines. The situation in the Goose Lake district is highly unsatisfactory. The branch is in bad shape, and is not fit to do the business offering. There is absolutely no room for doubt as to the lack of freight cars and the resulting inconvenience and even in many cases distress.

"In the cast the position of the

"In the east the position of the Grand Trunk is most unsatisfactory. Beyond question the system immediately requires at least 200 more locomotives and at least 10,000 freight cars.

If coal famines are to be avoided, and the proper winter movement kept up, the line from Burlington Junction to Fort Erie urgently requires double tracking. Other improvements are imperative. The question of electrification ought to be taken into consideration forthwith.

merative. The question of electrification ought to be taken into consideration forthwith.

Worse Next Winter.

"If things go on as at present, the traffic conditions of this year will in all probability return in an aggravated form next winter. The old equipment will be a little older, the roadbed will be in a little worse condition. And the situation in Esstern Canada has been so bad this winter that there has been much difficulty, especially at Grand Trunk points, in maintaining a supply of grain and flour from the west. It is imperative that efficient action be immediately taken."

A dissenting report is made by A. H. Smith, chairman of the commission. Mr. Smith differs from his colleagues as to the remedy which the situation demands. The conclusion of his report reads:

"Facing the urgency of the read cagues as to the remedy which the situation demands. The conclusion of his report reads:

"Facing the urgency of the need, considering the part which the government has taken and the responsibility which it shares, and keenly alive to the magnitude and importance of the tasks now placed upon the railroads and the greater tasks which they will face, I see no safe alternative but that the government shall continue, with discrimination and resort to all available safeguards, and under a policy of proper regulation and coordination of effort, to aid the necessitous railroads of the dominion until such time, which I hope and believe will not be far distant, when these will become self-suporting, and the problem will be solved."

Canadian Policy.

Canadian Policy.

Mr. Smith finds that the Canadian policy appears to have been to promote public welfare by means of building, or aiding in the building, of transportation lines throughout the dominion. In this connection he says:

"It is unfortunate that Canada did not have a policy of regulation in this period, which could have prevented needless duplication of lines and facilities. Competing lines have been built where effective regulation could have saved a large part of the investment, while completely satisfying every reasonable and proper need for service. Instead of co-ordination and conservation under government observation railways were permitted to duplicate plant in fields not yet productive enough to supply the one. The government, on the other hand, was, in one way or another aiding both project, if it had not indeed itself promoted. There or both projects. To the absence of such regulations must be charged responsibility for no small part of the railway problem of today."

He deals with the construction of the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Northern says:

Policy Carried Too Far, He Says.

"Hence we find two new companies both built largely upon public credit, striving for first place in a field which, as for transcontinental transportation, or even as for connecting eastern and western Canada, was already occupied. Besides having the great lakes waterway, there could have been barely enough business to support one additional line, and that only by the exercise of economy in preparation and prudence in investment. This brings us fairly to a recognition of the fact that while the policy of public aid to railways had originally been founded on the urgent need for transportation to open up a new country, to develop its resources and to unify Canada commercially and politically, it was carried far beyond the limits warranted by the original exigency. It appears to me that the responsibility is as much the government's as the private companies. Without enabling legislation and the extension of government credit from which all received their essential support the companies could not have expanded and overbuilt. The immediate and obvious thing to do is to adopt a constructive and discriminating program, first for correcting the conditions which necessitate continuing loss and waste even where that would require the abandonment of useless property, and second, for controlling new construction. The scrap heap is frequently the most economical disposition available for insufficient plant and machinery."

Agrees on Canadian Northern, Mr. Smith agrees in the conclusions of the majority as to the Canadian Northern. As to the Grand Trunk Pacific, his report, in part, reads:

"The Grand Trunk Pacific was located on a scale that would do credit to any single track line. There is not enough business to justify such an outlay, and the prospect for business which will warrant the cost seems quite remote. For long distances, sections of this parallel one or more other lines,"

He finds that the combination of the transcontinental and Grand Trunk Pacific give a good line, capable of giving efficient service as a connecting link between eastern and western Canada. He also finds that if the Grand Trunk relieved of the burden of the Grand Trunk Pacific, its operations ought to be profitable; that it occupies a good territory, reaching some of the best traffic centres in the United States and Canada and has American connections that ought to contribute to its welfare. American connections the contribute to its welfare. that ought to

of a permanent public service utility. Although he points out that the line from Yellowhead Pass to Vancouver, in part at least, might be unnecessary, but that it is there by the joint actions of the government and the company; and that from Yellowhead Pass to Edmonton, the presimity of the Grand Trank Pacific places two lines where one affords abundant capacity.

He also states that the invasion of the east by the Canadian Northera new appears to have been unwise, but sympathizes with the policy of the company in view of conditions existing at the time the construction was made.

He finds that the precessions finance

He finds that the precarious financial situation of the Canadian Northern is due in part to its uncompleted condition, and to the fact that the needed capital cannot be obtained from its own resources.

Hudson Bay Railway.

Of the Hudson Bay Railway he says: "The object in the construction of this road has been stated to be that of obtaining a shorter haul from the western provinces to Europe. The bulk of the traffic to follow this route must necessarily be diverted from the roads extending from Winnipeg to the cast, so that the project seems to be an instance of competitive construction which cannot be justified in this case, even on the ground that it opens up new verritory."

On the subject of recommendations, Mr. Smith says:

On the subject of recommendations, Mr. Smith says:

"I am unable to join my colleagues in their recommendations. They propose that practically all the railways in Canada, except the Canadian Pacific and the American lines, shall be turned over to a corporation to be managed by a board of trustees appointed by the government. They insist that this board is to be premanent and self-perpetuating. I do not know by what means one parliament can bind its successors to a given policy, especially in so simple a matter as changing the organization of a government board. My friends seek to avoid government ownership and operation, in fact condemn it as inadvisable, but propose a plan which contains so many elements THOSE PROPITEERS!

BERNHARDT IS COMING IN FILM

World's Greatest Tragedian Is To Appear at Majesty Theatre

Sarah Bernhardt is coming to Edmonton. That simple statement should be enough to arise the interest of every person in this city who is old chough to go to a theatre. The greatest tragedlenae the world has ever known, the one actress who art defies criticism, may be seen next week in her great stage success "Jeanne Dore." True, she will not be here in person, for she is now lying in a Philadelphia hospital hovering between life and death—the doctors has given up hope of her surviving her recent operation; but she will be here at the Majesty Theatre in the Riuebird photoplay. "Jeanne Dore." Bernhardt will be here in the film, with the best of her recorded self perpetuated for the sereen; her marvelous pantomiming, each expressive glance of her eyes, the illuminative countennuce and gesture of the incomparable one shown at close range and gyes everything that Canadians and Americans have learned to admire in Bernhardt, except the spoken word, which, at best, few could understand. "Jeanne Dore" was the last play that Bernhardt acced upon the stage, it was while she was pagying this that she had fo undergo the operation which deprived her of her lower limb. But at seventy-two years of age, after learning to seventy-two years of age, after learning to use the artificial limb she played in her first screen drama. And it was a picturiza-tion of her last stage success, "Jeanne Dore." Manager Itsweire announces that there will be no advance in the price of admission for this big feature.

admission for this big feature.

MONARCH.—Another big vital story for Finnie Ward is "A School for Husbands," which is the Paramount -straction on the program at the Monarch Theatre the list three days this week. The photoplay version of this clever story was prepared for Miss Ward by Harvey T. Thew. Each production in which Miss Ward appears proves her more versatile and more charming, until now she is halled as one of the foremost actresses on the screen. Either in tense dramas, such as "The Cheat," or in clever comedies as "The School for Husbands," Miss Ward excels. The story of her latest film has to do with Betty Manners, the wife of John Manners, John is a frivolous young broker who loves to gamble on the races and have a good time. His young wife, feeling that she must infatuated with another woman and losses his money on the stock exchange, just as ans wife discovers that one is the helpss to a vust fortune. Renizing fast she is losing her husband by her plain desse and "stay-at-home" manner, she starts out on which beter the present of the property of the property of the present of the present of the property of the property of the present of the property of the property in better clothes, and then through an old friend manages to arouse her fusband's featousy. How the husband is taught to look only toward his own freeside, is orought about by many clever and amusing situations. Miss Ward is first seen in a rather faded wrapper, eye glasses and her hair brushed straight back, but later appears in an array of gowns such as only she can wear. For this production she selected from her famous wardrobe some heretofore unseen creations. Included in the cast are Jack Deau, Frank Elliott, Mabel Van Buren, Edythe Chapman, James Neill, Frank Borzage and others.

Mabel Van Buren, Edythe Chapman, James Neill, Frank Borzage and others.

EMPRESS.—Wilfred Lucas, who played the star part in "Rummy," which was here only a few weeks ago, has just completed a new Triangle Fine Arts feature called "The Microscope Mystery," in which the principal feminine role is portrayed by Constance Taimadge. This new feature, direct from the Knickerbocker Theatre in New York, is at the Empress Theatre for today only. While recent Triangle pictures are being recalled, let it be remarked that Miss Tainadge lately appeared opposite Tully Marshall in "The Devil's Needle." Lucus, as a Triangle star, has had probably the fastest growing following of any male star next to Doughas Fairbanks and Wm. 8. Hart. At the rate is going, he should shortly be numbered a song the within the year. The leading critics of the photoplay in America have discerned in his work the human note that makes for unadding popularity. Consance Taimadge is regarded at the Pine Arts studies as an motional actress of great potentialities, he is above all, animated, and that is leadedly a pictorial quality. Coming Friends and Saturday is William Faraum in The Math From Bitter Roots," and mext veek is Bouglas Fairbanks in "The lateromaniae."

What The Advance Men Say.

MINSTREL SHOW AT THE PANTAGES ON FRIDAY NIGHT

In addition to the regular performance at the Pautages Theatre next Friday night there will be immediately after the regular entertainment a miasted show, with about eight numbers, lasting five minutes cach. Stage Director Wilf Rogers promises several innovations that will be of a mirth-provoking nature, and he has his cohorts rehearsbig with all their might for this special attraction.

There will be the regutar ministrel first part with a chorus of about 25 voices to start the ball rolling; three fongs by the Iniversity Four, Will Rogers and others; a dramatic recitation by William Schilling; a Hebrew impersonation; and Irish song and a jig by Will Rogers; and a wrestling match between Stanisleus Biscuits and A. Lean Bean, two of Northern Alberta's most cowardly grapplers. There will be snap, pep" and gluger to every number on the program, Mr. Rogers promises, and none will have reason to complain of the speed with which the entertainment will travel.

CAPABLE COMPANY PRESENTS "FRECKLES,"

The following tribute is paid "Freckles." which comes to the Empire Theatre tonight on "Phoenix" us the week-end attraction, by the Saskatoon "Phoenix":

"Freekles," another dazzling and spectacular production of the United Producing Company, made its initial bow in this city last night, when it appeared at the Empire Theatre for the first performance of a three-day stay in Saskatoon.

"Freekles" is billed as a song play adapted from the nevel of the same name by Gene Stration-Porter, a ladies' ald melodrama that sold into the zundred thousands and secured no uncertain popularity among the literary masses of the United States and Canada. "Freekles" belongs to the "boy's best friend is his mother" school, and as such should be treated. One may dismiss the play by saying that "Freekles" as a book.

The United Producing Company has given it a fine presentation in every sense of the word. The scene effects are all that could be desired, and the cast is well rounded and well balanced, even if some of its members have difficulty in dealing with the pseudo-Seatch-Irish dialect with which the dialogue is interfaced.

Julius Velie, in the Utilar role, gives a very fetching interpretation of a dreaming ingenious boy whose paternity is a matter of much doubt and much sorrow to him. Hazel Wood, playing opposite as "The Bird Lady" or "The Swamp Angel," which ever route your imagination takes, also gets every little kernel of sympathy out of bellegated.

aer roie, Monroe Dorr, C. D. Radford, Harry Dickenson, Zenalde Williams and Darrell Lyall all acquit themselves creditably in their various roles.

They promise a different result when the return match is shot off. By the rules of the contest 17 men shot, the two lowest dropping out. 1827—It is just ninety years ago today that Simon Byrne defeated Alexander McKay in five rounds during a bout near Glaszyw. This was one of the most widely advertised bouts ever pulled off in Scotland not it attracted wide attention. Byrne was an Irishman who had made quite a reputation for himself in his fights in and around Glasgow and there was considerable local rivalry by win his laurels. The sports wanted a Scotlod od the work and so they ticked McKay for the job. McKay but up as fine a fight as anyone could have expected but he was able to stand up against the frishman for only 47 minutes. As usual in those times, great sums were wagered en the fight while the men who did the work of giving and taking blows fought for the small sum of $258 each. Four wears later, in-1831, Byrne fought Jen: Ward for the championship, but was defeated. Two years after that at fought Jem Burke. For three hours and sixteen minutes the battle lasted and then Burke was declared the victor. Byrne received such terriole punishment during this encounter that he died a few days layer. On his death bed he declared that booze had defeated him, not Burke.

Sporting Facts and Fancies

Freddie Weish is still lightweight champion of the world, in spite of Johnny Kilbane's efforts to oust the crown from his head. The story of the affair, which was received here in Edmonton at first, indicated simply that Freddie was up to his old tactics and refused to fight. He was in a true sense of the word "defending his title." Another story of the contest would seem to indicate that Freddie got considerably more than the worst of it, and sort of intimated that Kilbane pulled his punches in the last round to prevent Freddie from going down to the mat, which is not very likely the case. Here is the account, which needless to say is rather Kilbanish:—"Kilbane won so decisively that Weish looked like a novice, ibundering and clinching blindly throughout the 10 rounds. Kilbane showed that he could do anything he pleased during the fight. To a man at the ringside it looked as though Kilbane could have knocked out Weish any time after the second round. In the second round it seemed certain that Kilbane had won the lightweight title. It was a fast fight—the best that Kilbane ever showed in this city. It might have been faster if Kilbane had so willed it, for it was Kilbane that set the pace. Welsh hardly landed four blows during the entire engagement.

Looking at the National League standing at the present time, reminds one of the mid-summer race of last year—it is so different. At the present time the New York Glants who were hovering around the cellar last summer, are out on top and still going strong, while Wilbur Robinson's Brooklyn Dodgers are entrenched in the basement without any indications of getting out in a hurry. Running them a race for last place are the Phillies, not so long ago, National League champs. However, the season is still quite young, and several upsets are certain.

The feature of the first three weeks' campaign in the major leagues has been the work of the St. Louis Cardinals. Classed as a club of second-division calibre from the start, the Cardinals have upset all calculations by stepping into the pennant race with a winning stride, and today they are in second place, close on the heels of the New York Giants. Miller Huggins' entry won ten games and lost seven, while the Giants, in first place with ten victories and three defeats, might be almost neck and neck with the Cards today had they played as many games. Whether or not the Cardinals can hold the fast pace they have set remains to be seen, but at present they are playing bang-up-ball. In the American League, three teams that were universally picked as contenders occupy the first three niches in the percentage columns. They are the White Sox, Red Sox and Yankees. The Detroit Club has surprised American League fans by the poor start it has made. A favorable comparison of all teams in the two big leagues cannot be made yet, however.

NO FURTHER DEBATE ON RECORD GOLF DRIVE; VAN LOAN MADE IT

There has been considerable discus-sion in the last few years concerning the longest golf drive ever made-in cluding both carry and roll. It has been said that Braid and Horne have both driven more than 400 yards, the roll included, while Abe Mitchell has a record of 318 yards. In order to settle this argument for all time we subpoenaed Charles E. Van Loan, the California Crasher, to establish a driv-ing record which would end the dis-pute forever and thereby close out the debate.

Mr. Van Loan, who is famed as a

Mr. Van Loan, who is fained as a short-story writer, agreed not only to smash all records, but to turn the trick with one hand.

We have just received Mr. Van Loan's official report. And we are pleased to state that the expedition was a terrific success.

Van Loan's drive, with a favoring wind, the ball hooked slightly, carried a total of 6,000 feet—2,025 yards—and thereafter disappeared from view.

This is absolutely correct. For in making his drive Van elected to tee up the ball on the edge of the Grand Canyon. Going still further, he second a spot just above the Black Canyon. Going still further, he selected a spot "ist above the Black Gorge, where the drop to the river below is 6,000 feet.

At this point the canyon is fourteen miles across, which is a carry that baffled even our selected star, the California Crasher. The best he could do was to make the river, 6,000 feet away.

In order to have the record thoroughly established beyond any rebuttal, he had photographs taken of the location, with no less an expert than Henry James Forman, of Collier's Weekly; to witness the stirring deed.

Mr. Forman reports that he followed

Weekly, to witness the stirring deed.
Mr. Forman reports that he followed the flight of the ball for a mile and then lost interest, but that he is willing to testify that it reached the gorge of the river, 2,000 yards below.
This should end all debate as to the world's record drive. Hereafter these 300 and 400-yard hitters will kindly fade into the background, for at the Grand Canyon you can get better than 400 yards with a putter with back spin employed.

New Cork Cap, Which Protects Batter, Cannot Be Worn Unless It Is Adopted as Regulation Headgear of Club—Rule as It Now Stands May Be Trivial, But is Effective

By Robert W. Maxwell

Pat Moran has entered a strenuous bjection against the playing rules adopted by the National league. He agin' 'em, and from now on it will la agin' 'em, and from now on it will be ruthless warfare to a finish unless a certain section is changed.

Pat is seeking no loophole to put across some new stuff. On the contrary, he is moved by the humane desire of protecting the heads of his star players, and he cannot do so unless some tampering is done with the legal code. Sounds funny? Well, let's take a look at the rule:
"Every club shall adopt two uniforms for its players, one to be wern in games at home and the other in games abroad, and the sul's of each of the uniforms of a team shall conform in color and style."

According to that rule a player who wears a traveling shirt in a home game while the others are clad in the white uniforms, or if he wears in the white uniforms, or if he wears a different colored cap or stocking will make it possible for the game to be thrown out and classed as a "scrub" contest which must be played over again.

Now we come to Pat's kick. The bean ball is getting to be quite a popular offering these days, and many players are hitting the dust after stopping a bender over the ears. Cara Mays bounced one off Thrasher's dome last week and others may suffered the same fate. Moran fears that one of his men will see a part to be a part of the bear will see that one of the part will see that will see that one of the part will see that will see that will see that will see that will se same fate. Sergant, in Fitchburg, Mass., who in-vented what is known as the "bean-ball cap." It is like any ordinary cap, only there are ridges of cork around the band, which deaden the blow if a pitched ball hits it. Pat wants to put this cap on a couple of his most valuable athletes while they are at bat, but he cannot do it unless everyone on the team wears them during the game. This could not be done, as they are quite heavy and when warm weather comes, they would al-most be too hot for comfort.

Pat wants the rule changed so that a batter may wear a cap of this sort for protection the same at a catcher is allowed to wear a mask, shin guards and a chest protector.

The rule as it now stands may seem trivial and one may think that little importance is attached to it, but here is an actual happening on the ball field, from which you may draw your own conclusions.

tield, from which you may draw your own conclusions.

Way back in 1914 the Phillies were playing St. Louis in that red-hot city. It was Sunday, and the huge crowd was kept on its feet by the close game and the sensational plays. The Phils, with big Alexander in the box, had a small lead and when the ninth inning came, the Cards put on a batty rally after two were out and had two men on the bases. A pinch hitter was rushed into the fray and silence fell over the park as he stepped up to the plate. A hit meant a run and a double would give the home team the game.

double would give the home team the game.

Alex got his sign from the catcher and started to throw the ball. Suddenly he stopped, stepped out of the pitcher's box and walked to the plate.

"I won't pitch to that man," he told the umpire.

"What's the matter?" inquired the guesser behind the plate.

"He isn't dressed properly," replied the star boxman. "He has different colored stockings on."

The umpire-looked and ordered the batter to put on a regular sock or get

MILLION DOLLARS ON ICE BREAKER

Auditor General Fraser Trying to Find Out Who Got the Difference

Ottawa, May 2-Confidential infor nation received by Auditor-General Fraser, when in England recently, that the Canadian icebreaker J. D. Hazen the Canadian icebreaker J. D. Hazen had been sold to the Russian government at an advance of half a million deliars, formed a topic of considerable interest in the public accounts commission this morning. The Icebreaker was in course of construction by Canadian Vickers, Ltd., at Montreal, when an arrangement was made betwen the imperial government and the Canadian government to transfer it to Russia. The auditor-general in a letter to Mr. Johnston, deputy minister of marine, said that if the contract with the Vickers company was to be cancelled the company would make a profit of $504,000, the amount paid on progress estimates. R. Johnston replied in a letter which was satisfactory to the auditor-general but he said that his suspicions were aroused later by what he had been told in Eugland. He declined to give the name of his informant but said he would do so later on if the information could not be otherwise secured.

Questioned as to why he had not included Mr. Johnston's explanatory letter in his published report, Mr. Frasor said, it was marked "Confidential."

Mr. Johnston, who was called, explained that after the agreement of transfer, a number of charges had been made in the plans of the ice-breaker. The vessel bought by Russia was a more expensive one than the ship planned by the marine department. THURSDAY, MAY 3, 1917.

Perhaps Berlin would like the Allies to paste signs on the hospital ships stating whether there are Huns aboard?

Canadian easualties during the last three weeks run up to more than 12,000 men. A few days ago it was reported that the Fifth Canadian Division had been formed in England and sent to France to fill the gap left by the recent heavy fighting. The prospect is that fighting will be as vigorously pushed during the coming months. If so, it does not take much cateulation to reach the conclusion that unless a large and continuous stream of reinforcements is kept moving across the sea the time will come when the Canadian army will have to be reduced to three, or perhaps two, divisions. There is need, as Sir Robert Borden says, that energy be put into the recruiting campaign if our army is to be saved from attrition.

Orders have been placed for steel ships in Canada up to the full limit of all steel plants available during the next fifteen months. Sir Thomas White stated in Parliament a few days ago that orders have been placed by the Imperial Government for 22 steel ships, with a total tonnage of 175,000 with Canadian shipyards, while orders for eight others are pending. This will keep all Canadian ship-building plants busy until larger ears rather than to con-well into 1918. James Whalen, president of the Port Arthur Shipbuilding Company, states that contracts have been secured by his company totalling more than five million dollars. For a country whose Premier said it was not worth while trying to encourage Stopped—No Prospect of Improvement. ship building, Canada seems to be doing pretty well.

Monetary Times: "Here is a "letter, received in Canada, from "a prominent financial and com-"mercial authority in the Western 'We are naturally States: " pleased to note that Canada and the United States came " eloser together the other day when your Government re-"pealed the duty on wheat. The great work right now for the " people of the North-West, in-" 'cluding North-western Canada, "'is to raise the biggest erop of " grains and other foodstuffs that " 'can possibly be harvested. We " 'want to co-operate with Canada " and want her to work with us "'in every way to bring this " 'about. The Monetary "Times will be pleased to receive "suggestions from its readers and "to forward them to the corres-"pondent who writes the above." Good! How would it be to take the duty off the farm implements necessary to produce this much-desired bumper crop?

There is a prospect of the U.S. authorities taking control of the food situation and putting the profiteers out of business. Hail Columbia, happy land.

Conservative papers continue to assure us that free wheat has caused the recent increases in the price of flour. Then, what does he Government intend to do to compensate the consumer for the additional burden thus thrust upon him?

Sir Thomas White thinks it would be unfair to impose an income tax because the incomes of professional and salaried men have not increased since the war began. But why should the speculator in life's necessities be excused because the doctor and the clerk are making no more money than they did four years ago?

Calgary Herald: "Matters more important than a general election should be occupying the attention of Canadians just now." are doing so; recruiting, and the high cost of living, for instance. An election is only thought of as the means to the end of getting these important matters attended to-the very necessary means, apparently.

As a reason for not raising part of the Dominion revenue by an income tax, Sir Thomas White says: "We are not a country of large accumulated wealth and of incomes derived from investments." But we are rapidly becoming such, thanks largely to the failure of Sir Thomas to appropriate the pickings and stealings of the profiteers.

If some Ontario papers had worked as hard to inspire the youth of that province with the spirit of patriotism as they are now working to inspire the voters of that province with the idea that Alberta is peopled by traitorous aliens it would not have been necessary to ransack Alberta for recruits to fill up the ranks of Ontario battalions.

A correspondent points out that in several cities the experiment has been tried of running oneman street cars, and that it has not been found to increase the liability of accidents. He also notes that in these cities a type of light, one-truck, specially constructed ear, is used. The difficulty about reproducing the results in Edmonton is that we have not the sort of ears mentioned. Instead, we have some dozens of great, heavy, two-truck cars, which would have to be left idle or sold at a fraction of their cost if the other type were installed. Assuming that with ears con-Assuming that with ears constructed for that purpose one-man cars could be operated with safety on at least our outlying lines, the point remains whether it would pay to "serap" the leavest over the purpose one-man it would pay to "serap" the leavest over the purpose of all tempting Red Cross insignia. #### ACUTE CRISIS IN PAPER SITUATION

London, May 2.—The Express says that there is an acute crisis in the paper trade in Great Britain, owing to the submarine activities, and that imports of raw material have almost stopped. Several paper mills have closed and imports in the last few weeks were only 10 per cent. of the restricted amount allowed by the Government. There is no prospect of improvement, as every ton of shipping will be needed henceforth for food. A further reduction in the size of the newspapers is considered inevitable.

OIL PRODUCTION RESUMED.

Amsterdam, via London, May 2.— Private advices received in Holland by rersons largely interested in Rouma-nian oll fields assert that oil produc-tion in Roumania is being resumed at the rate of about forty carloads a day, as compared with 128 carloads in 1914.

FORGET IT

If you see a tall fellow ahead of the crowd, A leader of men, marching fearless

Would cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away

It you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet and guarded and kept from

In the dark; and whose showing,
whose sudden display,
Would cause grief and sorrow and
life-long dismay,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy
Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy,
That will wipe out a smile, or the

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

REORGANIZATION PLANNED FOR U-BOAT CRISIS

Changes Are Being Planned By Premier Lloyd George and Sir Edward Carson

London, May 2—Important re-organizations of the staff and methods of the admiralty will shortly be put into effect for the purpose of meeting the submarine menace, according to the Daily Mail. The changes are being planned by Premier Lloyd George in collaboration with Sir Edward Carson and the war cabinet.

The premier has directed important inquiries with a view to the introduction of new methods.

The Mail claims that the direction of sea traffic has been inefficient owing to a failure to realize the great proportions of the submarine menage.

Through Political Agencies.
London, May 2—"Rumors of Sir Edward Carson's Impending resignation were circulated last night," says an arwere circulated last night," says an article on the admiralty in this morning's Times. "They were circulated probably by those political agencies which see German submarines a wearon for striking at the government. It may be well, therefore, to state authoritatively that no difference of onlation has arisen between the first lord and his colleagues in the ministry either on the naval policy or any other issue. If Sir Edward Carson desire to leave the adimrally, which is likely enough, it will be for entirely different reasons. He is being attacked at this moment on many sides from various motives. "There was a fresh demand yesterday for fuller information of our shipping losess. It is felt everywhere that the government must made an end to the system initiated by their pradecessors of the present weekly returns, which give an entirely misleading representation of the German submarine thockade. It is necessary to add, since the existing system is often ascribed personally to Sir Edward Carson, that the cablnet and not the admiralty nust act, in making reforms which to some extent affect both the allies and neutrals."

London, May 2-A dispatch from London, May 2—A dispatch from Amsterdam says:

"The Berliner Tagleblatt asserts that Dr. Cohn, Socialist member of the reichstag, proposes the appointment of a parliamentary committee to consider the German military leadership. U.S. Government Hears 400,000 Tons of Shipping Sunk in Past Week

Washington, May 2—Secretary Lane told the governors conferring here today with the council of national defense on the part state governments will take in the war that the federal government heard 400,000 tons of shipping had been sunk in the last week by German submarines.

Last Several Years.

Secretary Lane declared he believed the war would last several years and that every resources of the county must be used to bring victory.

"Many persons thought," said Secretary Lane, "that all we had to do was to issue bonds and that Germany would bow her head in submission. Nothing could be further from the truth. We do not know when this will lend. I believe it will last several years. Herbert C. Hoover has informed this government that Germany has food enough to last two years, perhaps longer.

Secretary Baker asked the state representatives to co-operate with the government in putting into operation the army draft law. He told of military and industrial preparations and observed difficulties the government faces.

Chancellor Bonar Law Prepares Largest Budget of War -New Taxes

London, May 2—Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, in his speech introducing the fourth war budget in the House of Commons today, said that since the beginning of the war $22,.000,000 had been advanced to Great Britain's allies and £142,.000,000 to her dominions.

The government, said Mr. Bonar Law, would requisition all ships and increase the excess profits taxes from 60 to 80 per cent.

London, May 2—The fourth and largest budget of the war has been prepared by Chancellor Bonar Law for Introducing today in the House of Commons, Although the intervention of America in the war is expected to relieve Great Britain to a large extent of the necessity of financing her allies, the government's expeditures for the present year, if the war continues probably will exceed the cost of preceding years, New sources of revenue must be found. The charges on the war debt are increasing and exclee returns are diminishing on account of the restrictions placed on the liquor trade. The house is prepared for an increase of the levies on excess profit, tobacco and amusements.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 2.—Notwithstanding a charp raily at one time, the wheat market today averaged lower, influenced by continued peace talk. Trade was light and mainly local. The temporary upturn was due to efforts of shorts to buy a 1 small amount of May. Quotations on that delivery ran up 11 cents in a few minutes and for a short time lifted other options to a material extent, but the effect soon wore off. Opening prices, which ranged from yet to be lower, with May at 255 to 259, and July at 200 to 212, were followed by a riso of 206 in May and 214½ in July, and then a sattack all around to well below yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats merely reflected the section of wheat. Business lacked volume. Cornate opening 1½ e lower to ½ up, scored gains of 2½6 in some cases before undergoing a general sag.

Provisions took an upward swing on account of the bullish showing made by the mouthly statement of warchouse stocks of lard. Weakness in the bog market was ignored. CHICAGO GRAIN

What did he say?" she asked "What did he say?" she asked, breathlessly.

"No; I opened right up by saying I had bad news for him—"

"Yes! I dare say I wasn't very tactful, now that I think it over, but, you see, I was rattled. I splited out the whole story at once. Bad news? said he. 'My dear boy, I'm delighted. God bless you both.' Then he made me tell how it all happened, and listened without a word. I thought I'd faint. He miled some gag about Danial and the lion; then his voice got far away and the blamed wire began to buzz, so I hung up and beat it back here. I'm glad it's over."

"He'll probably send you a solid-silver dinner-set or raise your pay. That's the kind of man he is."

Eliza's voice broke. "Oh, Danny, she cried, "he's the dearest, sweetest thing—" She turned away, and he kissed her sympathetically before going inside to the waiting Natalie. Instead of following, Eliza remained on the porch, graing down at the lights of the dittle city. An engine with its row of empty flais rolled into the yard, panting from its exertions; the notes of a plano came to her faintly from the street below. The lights of an incoming steamer showed far down the sound. O Neil had made all this, she refeeted; the busy town, the hopeful thousands who came and went daily owed their prosperity to him. He had made the wilderness the hopeful thousands who came and went daily owed their prosperity to him. He had made the wilderness fruitful, but what of his own life? She suspected that it was as bleak and barren as the mountain slopes above Omar. He, too, looked down upon this thriving intimate little community, but from a distance. Beneath his unfailing cheerfulness she felt sure his unfailing cheerfulness she fell sure there turked a hunger which the mere affection of his boys' could never satisfy. And now the thought that Dan had come between him and his heart's desire filled her with pity. He assemed suddenly a very lonely digure of a man, despite his material success. When his enemies were done to the substantial of the success. success. When his enemies were do-long had already done, so much to de-feat him, it seemed unfair that his trusted friend should step between him and the fulfilment of his dearest ambition—that ambition common to all men, failure to a man's whole life, no matter what other ends are achieved. "Poor Omar Shayyam," she thought, wistfully, "I wish there were love enough in the world for you. I wish there were two Natalies, or onst—" Then she shook the dream from her mind and went into the house, for the night was cold and she was shaking wretchedly.

O'Neil behaved more handsomely eyen than Eliza had anticipated. He hurried into town on the following morning, and his congratulations were so sincere, his manner so hearty

Of course since the unwelcome publication of the North Pass & Yukon story O'Neil had been in close touch with Illis and by dint of strong argument had convinced the Englishman of his own innocence in the affair. A vigorous investigation might have proved disastrous, but, fortunately, Curtis Gordon lacked leisure in which to follow the matter up. The truth was that after his public exposure at Eliza's hands he was far too busy mending his own fences to spare time for attempts upon his rival. too busy mending his own fences to spare time for attempts upon his rival. Consequently the story was allowed to die out, and O'Neill was finally relieved to learn that its effect had been killed. It was at about this time that the sangulary affray at Beaver Canyon began to bear fruit. One day a keen-faced, quiet stranger presented a card at Murray's office, with the name! HENRY T. BLAINE Beneath was the address of the Heidlemann building in New York, but otherwise the card told nothing. Something in Mr. Hinine's bearing.

Something in Mr. Blaine's bearing, however, led Murray to treat him with more than ordinary consideration.

"I should like to go over your work," the stranger announced; and O'Neil himself acted as guide. Together they inspected the huge concrete abutments, then were lowered into the heart of the giant calesons which protrdued from the frozen stream. The Salmon lay locked in its winter slumber now, the glaciers stood as silent and inactive as the snowmantled mountains that hemmed them in. Down into the very bowels of the river the men descended, while them in. Down into the very bowels of the river the men descended, while O'Neil described the nature of the bottom, the depth and character of his foundations, and the measure of his progress. He explained the character of that bar which lay above the bridge site, and pointed out the leavy layers of railroad from with which his cement work was reinforced.

"I spent nearly two seasons study-ing this spot before I began the bridge," ac continued. "I had men here, night and day, observing the here, night and day, observing the currents and the action of the lee. Then I had my piers accordingly. They are armored and reinforced to withstand any shock."

"The river is subject to quick rises. I believe?" suggosted Blaine.

"Twenty feet in a few hours."

"The volley of ice must be almost irresistible."

"Why?"
"My people are human. They have feelings. You read Gordon's lies about us and about that fight at Beaver Canyon? Well, we're used to abuse, and opposition of a kind we respect; but that man stirred public opinion to such a point that there's no further use in heeding it. We're teady to proceed with our plans now, and the public can go to the devil till it understands us better. We have several men in fail at Cortez, charged with murder; it will cost us a fortune to free the poor fellows. ED HOWE OF KANSAS AND THE If you have ever read "The Story of a Country Town" you need no introduction to Ed. Howe, otherwise Edgar Watson Howe, who for the past thirty-six years has been editor of the Atchlson (Kansas) Globe. But Ed. Howe has been more than just editor of the Globe. He has risen to be one of the best known writers and best loved men in America today, and that is why upon this day there are pouring in upon him congratulations from every part of the country, for Ed. Howe is celebrating his sixty-third birthday. The humorous paragraphs which for years have been appearing in the Globe are perhaps the most widely quoted in the United States. Of course, if you want to be technical, you maint say that Ed. Howe has not course, if you want to be technical, you raight say that Ed. At that time he just up and quit and turned the sacet over to his son. But the Atchison Globe without Ed. Howe isn't the Atchison Globe. It's interesting to note that he quit, in a manner of speaking when the paper was making 360 a day for its owner. It wasn't always that way. But Ed. made it, just made it from an obscure country sheet that struggled to pay for ink and paper, to a regular property. If you should happen to go out Atchison way nowadays and ask for Ed. Howe you will be directed to a very pretty little country place not far away from the town where the eminent writer spends his days. The place is called Potato Hill, which is a very aristocratic name for a country place these days with potatoes at the price they are solling. Do you think Ed. sits idlly by just dawdling his time away? Well, you're mistaken, he doesn't. Instead, he gets out that well-known publication called "E. W. Howe's Monthly, devoted to indignation and information." Ed. hands out lots of both each month and it makes good reading. Here's hoping he may long continue to hold forth on Potato Hill. eading. ARCHBISHOP PRENDERGAST'S LONG SERVICE.

ARCHRISHOP PRENDERGAST'S LONG SERVICE.

Among the foremost churchmen in the United States today is Archbishop Prendergast of Philadelphia, who today celebrates his seventy-fourth birthday amid the well wishes of clergymen of every denomination. Archbishop Prendergast has had along, honored and active career. He was born in Ireland in 1842. He came to this country when he was sixteen years old, in the year 1859, and six years later was ordained a priest. He served in various charges in Eastern Pennsylvania, and in 1874 was made rector of St./Malachi's Church in Philadelphia, with which city he has been identified to a great degree ever since. He is still nominally the rector of this church, despite his elevation to the rank he now holds. In 1897 he was consecrated auxiliary bishop of Philadelphia and three years later was appointed administrator of the archdiocese by the late Archbishop Ryan, this office taking effect with the death of the latter churchman, whom, after a few months he succeeded. Archbishop Prendergast has enjoyed the friendship of America's foremost men during the past two decades. dr. Olis' brother was a merchant, selling, among other medicines, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and he heard his customers telling about how they were cured of kidney derangements by their use. This led to Mr. Olis putting them to the test, with the splendid results reported in this letter.

Mr. E. C. Olis, Benton, Carleton County, N.E. writes: "I am glad to let you know how much your medicines, has done for me. I suffered from my kidneys which at one time were so had I could not life a sick of wood and amost faint from the pain in my back. I consulted a doctor about it, and he gave me some medicine, but it did not help me. My brother, who has a merchant, and carries all your medicines, advised me to try. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pilis. I got one box, and they helped me, so I got one box and they helped me, so I got one box, and they helped me, so I got one box and they helped me, so I got one box and they helped me, so I got one box and they helped me, so I got one box and they helped me, so I got one box and they helped me, so I got one box and they helped me, so I got one box and they helped me, so I got one box and they helped me, so I got one box one they knew to be certain, even though more expensive. He did not brigge that the task was of imprecedented difficulty, for he had made his promise and was ready to stand or fall by it. It is doubtful, however, if any other contractor would have undertaken the work on such time; in fact, had it been a public bridge it would have required four years in the building. Yet O'Neu cheerfully staked his fortune on completing at in jeight norths.

THE RIPE

TOMATO HAZARD

In this day of extensive advertising it is interesting to note the career of a man who might be considered; a pioneer in the matter of publicity, namely, James Morison, who died in Paris May 3, 1840. He styled himself "Hygeist," and was for many years both noted and notorious for his extensively advertised "vegetable medicines. Morison had been a merchant trading in the West Indies before he began selling what would be today known as patent medicines. He had long suffered ill-health until he discovered a certain "vegetable pill" which, he said, completely restored his health. And so he decided to benefit mankind in general by making and selling his wonderful pilis. You can judge for yourself how much money Morison made when during the first ten years of his pill business he paid taxes to the British Government amounting to 60,000 pounds. Morison founded what was known as the British Coilege of Health, in London, and this institution was maintained for many years after his death.

Famous Women

MARY CUTTER.

MARY CUTTER.

In the days before the war there was celebrated in the small towns of Lancashire, England, the anniversary of a curious event that took place on May 3, 1759. The celebration is in honor of a young woman, Mary Cutter by name, who on that day completed a Journey of one thousand miles, which she had wagered to do in one thousand hours. She did it in very much less time. It seems that the countryside was very much interested in speedy travelling, probably because of the boast made by some one at some time, which boast was carried by word of mouth all over the neighborhood. It was during the days of heavy betting on the part of the men, and women, it seems, were not averse to laying wagers. At any rate, along came Mary and laid a big bet with some sports in the neighborhood that she could travel the distance mentioned above in the stated hours. Everybody ridiculed her. Such a thing was unheard of. Just how she did it history falls to mention, but it is evident that she did it either on horse-back or in a coach, or both. They had no railroads in those days, and high-powered motor cars, why, even the mention of such a thing would have no railroads in those days, and high-powered motor cars, why, even the mention of such a thing would have seen one to the madhouse. Anyway, Mary completed the journey in a lit-tle more than two-thirds the stated time, and when she returned to her native town the people strewed flow-ers in her path.

Sidelights on the War

THE KAISER'S CLUB LIST SHRINKS.

From time immemorial monarchs have exchanged titles, nobiliary as well as military, and have decorated each other with all sorts of orders. During the latter part of the last century, when kings simply had to become a little more democratic if they wanted to remain popular, they accepted membership in all sorts of clubs, including those in foreign lands. Before the war the Kaiser was a British admiral and a Russian admiral or general, and the Czar and King George were also colonels or generals of the German army. Of course it's different now. At the same time the Kaiser was a member of several British clubs, and foremost among those to which he belonged is the Royal Yacht Squadron, which is generally regarded as the foremost yacht club te felt sorry for Lulu, for a toothache is no fun.

"But I'll stop it for her if I can," aid the bunny rabbit, and he got his ippers from his tool box. The nippers were really made for cutting wire, or pulling nails out of a board, but her would pull out a tooth if you needed to do that, which I hope doost't happen to you this week.

"I'll he back as soon as I can," nele Wiggily said to Nurse Jane, as thurried out of his hollow stump bungalow. Soon he was at the Wibblewobble duck house, and Jimmie let aim in.

"Don't say anything about having rought your nippers, Uncle Wigly." whispered the duck boy. "We not want Lailu to know you're going null her tooth."
"T'll net say a word," promised the nay uncle, and he hid his pincers of his sleeve as he went in the duck the house. Once inside he could hear the held still crying.

"Then let Dr. Possum pull it out," said Mrs. Wibblewobble,
"Oh, no! Never! I can't bear to have t pulled!" and Lulu hid her yellow bill under her wing, her tooth being inside her bill, you know.
"Oh, here's Uncle Wiggily!" said Alice, who was Lulu's sister. "Let him see Dr. Possum pull out your tooth."

"Nope! I don't want to!" and Lulu never raised her head.
"It won't hurt you a bit," said Dr. Possum, "or at least it will only hurt a teeny, weeny second and not half as long as your teeth will ache if you don't have it puiled."
"No! No!" said Lulu, peevish like.
"You try Unele Wigely," said Mrs.

"No!"
"You try, Uncle Wiggily, said Mrs. Wibblewobble, in a whisper.
Uncle Wiggily tried his best to get Lulu to let him pull her tooth, but she would not. She just kept her head and bill, with the aching tooth in it, under her wing, and though Uncle Wiggily laughed at her, and made jokes and was as jolly as a lollypop. Lulu wouldn't let him get near her bill to pull the tooth.

Then the bunny uncle rabbit thought of something else. He whispered to Jimmie, who laughed and ran to his bedroom. Pretty soon the duck boy came out with something black, and Uncle Wigglly and Dr. Possum whispered together a little in a corner and smiled between themselves.

"Now," said Uncle Wigglly in a loud voice, sort of tiwnkling his pink nose at the others, and nodding at Lulu, "I am going to do a funy trick. I am going to pull some teeth, and there will not be so much as a squeak when I do it." the bunny uncle rabbit

"You're not going to pull mine." mumbled Lulu, her yellow bill still under her wing.

"Ha! You just watch me!" cried the bunny uncle, making believe he was a circus man doing a trick. "Keep your cyes on me, ladies and gentlemen," went on Uncle Wiggily, his pink nose twinkling so fast that it looked just like a moving picture when the film treaks, "I will now pull one, two and three teeth," and with that he held up the black thing, which was Jimmie Wibblewobble's rubber comb, and with his nipper-pincers Uncle Wiggily pulled three teeth out of the comb, one after the other.

"There! What do you think of that?" cried the rabbit gentleman. "And the comb never said Boo! Did it Lulu!" And Lulu, the duck grl, was so surprised at what Uncle Wiggily did, pulling out the comb's teeth, that she opened her yellow bill read wide, to have a good laugh, forgetting for the moment about her own aching tooth. As soon as Uncle Wiggily saw Lulu's bill open he quickly called to Dr. Possum.
"Ready now! Puil!" And before Lulu." "Ha! You just watch me!" cried the

As soon as Uncle Wiggily saw Lulu's bill open he quickly called to Dr. Possum.

"Ready new! Pull!" And before Lulu could close her bill again, Dr. Possum reached in with a button hook and pulled out the aching tooth, and it never hurt Lulu any more after that.

"Ouch! Oh!" she said just for a second when Dr. Possum pulled, but it was because she was surprised, not because she was furt.

So you see, after all, pulling the comb's teeth was a good thing, though none of them really ached, and the comb never minded it at all And after that Lulu was real jolly.

And if the doctor doesn't have to put some plaster on the wall to take the pain out of the window shade, so it can fly up to the ceiling. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the mosquite.
